TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

JOJO SUTHERLAND - TESTIMONIAL

JoJo Sutherland conducted Stand Up & Be Counted workshop for 10 of our senior professionals. Her approach using expertise drawn from her stand-up comedy was very successful in quickly getting all of our staff engaged. The light hearted approach put staff immediately at ease, which meant all were active participants in the session.

We are a firm of Consultant Engineers and good communication is a big part of our day to day working. The training session very effectively covered techniques to improve communications and gave staff the confidence to express themselves and break down some myths and nerves associated with speaking to small or large groups.

The session also addressed team building by encouraging staff to share some non-sensitive private or personal details about themselves. This identified some working practice weaknesses within our company that we were unaware of.

This session was very much customised to our specific requirements and interests and I am sure this approach could be tailored to suit individual company preferences.

Yours sincerely
